THE PRICE OF SUBSCRIPTION FOR THE "DAILY NEWS" IS NOW EIGHT DOLLARS A YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Gold closed in New York, on Saturday, at 113.

—Cotton closed dull and unsettled; uplands 15 1/2; sales 2200 bales.

—In Liverpool cotton closed dull; uplands 8 1/2; Orleans 9 1/2; sales 10,000 bales.

—The English government has refused to accept any form of the military in the British army.

—All Prussian soldiers decorated with the Iron Cross are entitled to the same salaries from soldiers as officers.

—Poland, Esq., the Virginia historian, is said to be lying hopelessly ill in New York of Bright's disease.

—San Francisco is eating green peas, asparagus, strawberries, string beans, fresh peas, cucumbers and green corn.

—The Brooklyn chess players are talking of a grand tournament, with prizes of $100, $1000 and $500, open to players from all parts of the world.

—P. T. Barnum, after four years of diligent searching after curiosities, is about to establish a colossal museum, menagerie and circus, with which he proposes travelling through the country.

—The President has pardoned ex-Speaker and ex-Internal Revenue Collector Calhoun, of New York, from the Alcatraz penitentiary. Calhoun's infamous career, in Charleston, after the close of the war, will be remembered by most of our readers.

—According to constitutional requirement, the second session of the Forty-first Congress commences to-day, 4th instant, and will expire on the 4th of March next, at which time the Forty-second Congress will meet, unless the law requiring it to meet at that time is repealed.

—Otto Goldschmidt, Jenny Lind's husband, having squandered his wife's fortune, the lightening is so reduced as to be compelled to teach music for a living. The ill-matched pair have separated by mutual consent, and the spendthrift must now shift for himself.

—The grand Hebrew Charity Fair in New York, for which preparations have been making for weeks, was inaugurated on Wednesday evening. Thousands of persons, without regard to denomination, were present. Governor Hoffman delivered an eloquent address on the occasion.

—The National Tobacco Association, of the United States, will meet in Richmond, Virginia, to-morrow, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance from all portions of the country representing the tobacco interest. The convention is to wind up with a splendid ball, given by the Richmond tobacco merchants.

—The French Prince Imperial, says a London letter of November 16, frequently rides over from Chislehurst to the ranger's house, Blackheath and Woolwich, on a visit to his Royal Highness, Prince Arthur, in the Rife Brigade.

—Prince Arthur has, on one or two occasions, returned the visit of the Prince Imperial by driving over to Camden House, Chislehurst, and conversing with the Emperor.

—A further marked decline in coal was established last month, the monthly trade in New York, on Wednesday, by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Company. Ninety thousand tons were disposed of. The attendance was not so numerous as usual, and the bidding was rather slow.

—Compared with the previous sale, lamp is down 33 1/2 cents per ton; steamboat, 25 cents; grate, 40 cents; egg, 20 cents; stove, 45 cents, and chestnut, 37 1/2 cents.

—General Edmund Schriver, Inspector of the United States Military Academy at West Point, in his last annual report, remarks upon the superficial education acquired by the candidates for admission to that institution. He says that it is no longer unusual to find candidates rejected at West Point for deficiency in the primary branches of a common school education in possession of diplomas from reputable colleges, attesting their proficiency in many kinds of knowledge. He further says that though the requirements for admission are not beyond the capacity of an ordinary pupil of the common schools, yet it is doubtful whether one-tenth of the candidates for admission to West Point could pass the preliminary examination without, the one year's preparatory study required by law.

—A letter has been received by the Pope from General Trochu, which was sent from Paris by balloon, and afterwards forwarded by courier. In this epistle the general expresses his sympathy for the Holy Father in the misfortunes which have fallen upon him, and laments that the present condition of France prevents her from coming to his assistance, but he is persuaded that this disability will soon cease. As for himself, he has determined to seek retirement as soon as he has accomplished his mission at Paris, but the detachment of the Holy Father by the Italian annexation has led him to abandon this resolution, and he will make his next duty to restore the Pope his triple crown. Letters and addresses of adherence pour into the Vatican from all sides, and keep the Holy Father in a state of exaltation which renders him indifferent to present evils.

—The demand for additional facilities in sending telegraphic messages across the Atlantic, has resulted in the formation of the "New York and London Direct Telegraph Company," with a board of directors, under the chairmanship of Earl Dudley. The committee is composed of the eminent electricians, Sir Samuel Canning and Sir William Thomson, together with Mr. Robert Sabine. The authorized capital is $3,500,000, which is believed to be amply sufficient for all purposes. The eastern terminals will be on the coast of Wales, and on this side the company has control of the charter of the Narragansett and European Cable Company, granted by the State of Rhode Island. The direct route between Wales and Rhode Island is believed to be free from icebergs. This new company also promises a reduction in rates, first by regarding five signs as a word, without making a double charge for cypher messages, and second, by dividing messages into ordinary and second-class dispatches, the former to be sent through without delay, and the latter at the time of day when the wire is not crowded. The company promises to put the tariff of first-class messages at one-half and of second-class messages at three-fourths of the present rates.

—The arrival of a large number of Revenue Reform Congressmen from the West, and their interviews with the President, have given the latter an excellent opportunity of learning the views of the progressive members of his party on the subject of national integrity. Among the principal gentlemen with whom he has conversed are ex-Senator Wilkinson, of Minnesota; Congressman Allison, of Iowa; Ingersoll, of Illinois, and Washburn, of Wisconsin. They declare that their object is to destroy the power of Pennsylvania and the New England manufacturing interests; to utterly annihilate the high tariff men, and to assert the rights of the overwhelming majority of the people in the Northwest to seek cheap markets wherever they may be found.

They are inclined, however, to express their opinion that the tariff takes from the farmer nine dollars for the benefit of the manufacturer for every one that goes into the treasury; while every dollar taken from them by direct taxation goes directly to relieve the burdens of the government, and propose to ignore old party lines and make concessions to the Democrats to secure the control in the organization of the new House. They state their clear free trade as a policy, and favor Mr. Allison's revenue tariff bill from the Southern States has a great future before it, second only in importance to the gigantic petroleum trade of the Northern States. So says the Liverpool Circular of Alexander S. Macrae, of November 19, which adds: "Its sweetness, utility and price, are now commending it everywhere, and though in England we are manufacturing some 20,000 tons annually, (chiefly from Egyptian seed) the quality is not to be compared with the American, as the following values will testify: The price of English to-day is $24, at which it is slow; the value of American is $28 to $30 per ton, at which it is strong demand. The range of quotations for American oil begins from the worst of it (which collapses any oil of ours) to the best of it, that is, from ordinary yellow to the fine bleached. The bleaching of this oil is of the very highest importance, and whether affected by the sun or chemically, will have a marked advantage from Southern climates. Our consumption for it is practically inexhaustible—we use it for soap, for salads, for lubricating and for burning—and the whole continent of Europe consumes it largely. It is sold by the ton of 2240 lbs, and if $25 to $28 per ton be taken off the above quotations, producers may see at a glance the 'net profit' on consignments to Liverpool from the Southern and Western States of America."

—The Next United States Senator.

The General Assembly will, in all probability, elect to-morrow a U. S. Senator to succeed Senator Robertson, whose term of office expires in March next. A number of candidates are already announced; so many, indeed, that the votes of the small band of Conservative members have become of considerable moment, and must, at the very least, go far to determine the anxiously awaited result.

The experience of the past four years has shown that a senator who is moderate in his opinions and liberal in his sentiments, has the power to render a valuable aid in the work of restoring the State to a condition of solid prosperity. And it is of no trifling consequence that South Carolina should be represented in the Senate of the United States by men who may be trusted as the faithful exponents and defenders of her many important interests. The people, therefore, watch with deep concern the course of the Conservative Senators and Representatives, and expect of them a prudent and deliberate course, equally free from resentment and partisan feeling. And in their expectation, we are confident, the people will not be disappointed.

To make their power felt, the Conservative members must stand squarely together, putting away all personal preferences, in laboring for the common good. Nor do we think it wise that they should throw away their vote by supporting a candidate whom it is practically impossible to elect. The aim should be to elect the least objectionable of the candidates—a man of pure character and fair ability, who, if he has no brilliant public record, has, at least, no shameful past, and promises well for the future. That he is a Republican in itself no objection, for the Conservative members were themselves elected by the union of Republican and Democratic votes. That he is a Northern man is nothing against him, for South Carolina offers a hearty welcome to all capable and trustworthy men who join their fortunes with hers. That he is comparatively unknown is rather an advantage, for of most of the candidates we know far too much.

Looking over the field we see one man only who combines the positive and negative merits we have indicated. We mean Colonel Pearce, who, for some years, has been the agent, in Columbia, of Governor Sprague, of Rhode Island. Colonel Pearce is a Northern man, but his interests are ours; he is a Republican, but not a fanatic; he is not a party prodigy, but he is, we believe, an intelligent, active and thoroughly upright man. To us he is personally unknown, but we are satisfied, as we have said, that he would faithfully and intelligently represent all South Carolina, and that he is the only man before the people for whom the Conservative members can properly vote, with any prospect of gaining a substantial victory for the cause of just and impartial government.

Sounding the Alarm.

Daddy Cain, in the last number of the Monday Record, assures the faithful that since the elections a great change has come over Governor Scott, who, having accomplished the desire of his heart, will make the negroes keep their places, and turn South Carolina into a white man's State, by removing the colored officials and filling the vacancies with white men. The idea is that Governor Scott can secure, through the present Legislature, the completion of the Blue Ridge Railroad, and will, upon his retiring from the gubernatorial chair, become president of what may then be the most important railroad in the South. Daddy Cain declares, therefore, that the negroes do not intend to be sent out, and that the leading colored men must counsel together and frame and act upon an independent policy, with which no white man will be allowed to interfere.

This is about the sum and substance of Daddy Cain's last pronouncement; but, coming as it does from a failed office-seeker of eccentric morality, it will be taken by both whites and blacks with several grains of salt.

The Nation on South Carolina Politics.

The New York Nation takes a hopeful view of the political future of our State. It says:

In South Carolina, the Conservatives or Reformers, as they call themselves, are reported since the election as being in a state of apathy, their despair as regards the political future of the State. Perhaps they have reason when it is the fact, for instance, as we know it to be, on testimony for which we can vouch—that some of the section inspectors unblushingly permitted such open frauds as the casting of ballots by the negroes as well as by the men, and that there will be plenty of proof of similar irregularities when the seats are contested. But again, perhaps in these facts the white men of the State have reasons for despairing rather than in favor of it. The white men, and their like, no doubt get some of their power over their ignorant constituents because it is yet too soon for the negro quite to trust the white man, even when planted on the best of platforms, and influenced, let us grant, by motives sincerely good; but some, at least, of their power is based on the mere ignorance of their constituents, and on their own as yet undetected rascality, and their prosperity has not the elements of stability. Its support can in no long time be taken from under it by patient fair treatment of the negro population, and sincere co-operation with them for the common benefit in political labor and investigation. The State grows richer in spite of its plunderers; the colored politicians must always be few in comparison with the colored laborers; and long before there is time or opportunity for the corruption of the latter by the example of the former, the laborer, if fairly treated, and if fully accepted as a political co-worker, will have forsaken the corruptional demagogues, or else have driven them to comparative decency.
